Canadian Human Rights International Organization CHRIO

Yeli is a Human Resources Director of the Canadian Human Rights International Organization CHRIO, where she helps to immigrants; refugees in general people in need. She provides support, mentoring, and training to volunteer under supervision to the academic supervisor.

Yeli Cirey Decer Castelán is a psychologist with a master degree in education with specialty in teaching methodology; her love for teaching inspired her to work as a university and elementary school teacher.

Born in Mexico and member of a family that has inculcated her that with honest work, constant study, and respect for the laws and the continuous search of progress in harmony we can all achieve our goals.

From a very young age, she was interested in knowing the motivations that govern human behavior reason why she enrolled in the psychology degree.

During her years of study, she found that each one of us could recreate their own reality and that everybody can find ways to build a better life in coordination with their families and their community.

She knows that this is something to work in, and she considers that education can help in this labour.

Today, following her passion for service she is collaborating Prior to joining to the Canadian Human Rights International Organization, Yeli joined as Director Anti-trafficking & protection program for the Collective Human International Rights Defender “Laura Acosta” International Organization COHURIDELA.

Yeli received federal, provincial and municipal recognition for her work as human rights defender. She is part of the mental health program team.

Yeli has been involved in international human rights activism and support other missions around the world.
